"Myanmar, known as Burma, has experienced periods of authoritarian rule throughout its modern history. From 1962 to 2010, the military ruled the country.

This period of authoritarianism was marked by stringent mechanisms designed to perpetuate dictatorial power.

Furthermore, in February 2021, we faced another unfortunate repetition of history with a military coup."

Project Title - Towards Sustainable Peace

:Understanding and Addressing Systematic Oppression Perpetuated by Authoritarian Regimes

Project Vision: This study aims to make a significant contribution to future policymaking by enhancing understanding and widespread awareness of systematic oppression. By preventing the further entrenchment of dictatorships, it paves the way towards sustainable peace."

- Actionable Objective One - Researching to understand forms, patterns, and systems from the societal level to the national level. This systematic study includes perspectives from social science, psychology, and socio-cultural framing.
- Actionable Objective Two - "The study's findings will lead to the creation of various educational materials, utilizing not only mass media but also activism. These materials may encompass cartoons, poetry, documentary films, and more."
